Speeches by Pulliam, Brent and Mitchell-A Large Crowd Attends.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) CHESTERFIELD, VA., November An educational meeting was held here o-day for the benefit of the public school teachers of the county, which was throughout full of interest and fraught with good influences for the uplift and perfecting of the school system and machinery of the county.

chinery of the county.

In October, a year ago, a convention of the school teachers was called by the County School Board, and an exceedingly pleasant and profitable day was spent. The institution seems to have grown in favor, for to-day a much larger company assembled, and the old court room was inadequate to comfortably seat the attending crowd of both ladies and gentlemen.

Of the eighty-seven teachers of the of the eignty-seven teachers of the county about two-thirds are white, and the latter division seems to have come en masse. They, with the accompanying irlends, made a goodly company to greet the speakers of the day.

Irlends, made a goodly company to greet the speakers of the day.

The speakers of the morning were Mr. David L. Pulliam, superintendent of the public schools of Manchester, and Mr. Frank P. Brent, secretary of the State Educational Board. The former chose as his subject, "Literature," and the latter spoke in a general way on education in Virginia and how to improve the system of public instruction.

Mr. Joseph A. McGilvray was scheduled to deliver an address, but he failed to appear. After luncheon, Mr. Ben P. Owen, Jr., being an adept at the art, entertained the school ma'ams with a humorist talk until the arrival of Professor S. C. Mitchell at 3:15 o'clock, from Richmond. Dr. Mitchell then delivered the closing address of the day, dwelling on personality in teaching, as both the means and end in education.

Many of the teachers as well as others, who attended having come many miles to-day, the meeting adjourned shortly after 4 o'clock and the company dispersed.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Robertson, Mrs. B. M. Robertson and Miss Ellse Bagley were guests of friends here on last Sunday.

Mr. Clyde Truehart has accepted a po-

Mr. Wilmer DuVal, formerly of this county, has recently left Virginia for the State of Arizona for his health.

SALEM, VA., November 2.—There was a great Democratic rally in Salem this Never in all the history Roanoke county did a larger crowd of the voters of the county assemble to be which was gathered at the Town Hall this evening to hear the issues of the campaign discussed by Senator John W Daniel.

Every section of the county was repre sonted in the audience. Enthusiasm was at the highest pitch, at times so prolonged was the applause that it was reveral minutes before the senator could continue his address. Major Daniel was escorted to the platform by a large committee of prominent citizens, and was introduced to the audience in a brief, but appropriate, speech, by Mr. G. Sheldon Bowman.

Attorney-General William A. Anderson and former Attorney-General Rufus A. Ayers, of this place, addressed a fair sized crowd at the school hall here last night on the political issues of the day. Mr. Anderson discussed the present administration | at length, and handled Roosevelt barehanded.

General Ayers confined himself to the new Constitution of Virginia and from his standpoint demonstrated the factithat the people were saved thousands of dollars by the adoption of that instrument.

The fight is getting warm out in the southwest counties now, and every inch of ground will be hotly contested.

that being yet at bachelor he could speak to them better separately, than collectively, they, too, were much pleased with his speech.

A few months ago while the grass was green upon the grave of her first husband, Mr. Atwell came here from his Manchester home, where he had left his family, and settled quietly down at the home of Mrs. Hood, whose husband by hard toil had accumulated a small amount of money, and here rested for several weeks when the affections for one another began to grow, and they became so deeply infatuated with each other that he was allowed free access to her pure as well as other property, and her people were disactished at the way things were soling also, and they with a crowd of neighbors assembled at the home one evening a few months ago and drove him away, making him pack his trunk and carry it on his back nearly two miles to this place. His visits were very few after this, but the devotion to each other continued to grow, and only for the past few days, after the affair had cooled down sufficient, he ventured hack and was successful after many months in securing his divorce only a few days ago, and lofter where the plans were stranged.
